Is Planning Vigorous Representations to Rome and Berlin On The Matter

MAY BE MADE SECRETLY

Britain Convinced Attacks On Her Ships in Spanish Waters Are Deliberate

(By International News Service)

LONDON, June 8.—Britain's government is planning vigorous representation to Rome and Berlin against the bombing of British ships in Spanish waters, International News Service was informed today.

This action may be taken as a result of an assertion the Duke of Alba, General Franco's representative in London, that Franco is not responsible for and cannot control the activities of Italian and German planes operating in the Spanish Civil War.

The representations, it was stated, may be made secretly to avoid the possibility of upsetting the Anglo-Italian friendship agreement.

Britain, it was learned, is now convinced the attacks on her ships in Spanish government ports are deliberate, and report an effort by the insurgent air forces to enforce a blockade by means of aerial warfare.

Meanwhile, the British government also is seriously considering confiscation of Spanish insurgent ships in retaliation against attacks on British vessels.

FLAMES ROOT GAME

Firemen in this area were summoned yesterday afternoon to fight a grass fire in the field, between Rogers Road and Bath Road. The flames spread rapidly and rabbits, pheasants and a fawn were chased from cover. The fawn appeared in the open field, was caught and then taken back into the woods and released by the firemen. The firemen were called again last evening when the flames were again fanned by the wind and assumed threatening proportions.

HULMEVILLE, June 8.—Nine candidates were initiated by the newly-formed degree team of Wild Rose Rebekah Lodge, Monday evening, in the local lodge room. The team was under the direction of Mrs. Horace C. Cox, the members being highly congratulated upon their work of the evening.

Those initiated: Mrs. Lillian Kuhn, Mrs. Richard A. Hopkins, Mrs. Kenneth Ferrell, Mrs. Valera L. Lackenman, Miss Valera E. Lackenman, Mrs. Merton Vansant, Mrs. C. Wesley Haefner, Mrs. Arthur Martindell, Mrs. Jessie Bates.

Miss Marie Hanson, noble grand, was the presiding officer; and during the evening brief addresses were made by Miss Frances M. Walker, Philadelphia, past president of the Rebekah Assembly; and Mrs. Anna Bogart, Philadelphia, district deputy president.

A visitation was paid on this occasion by several members of Lily Rebekah Lodge, No. 366, of Bristol. Fifty-five assembled for the affair of the evening.

On behalf of the local lodge Mrs. Harry Oliver presented a bouquet of flowers to Mrs. Cox, director of the team.

Refreshments of ice cream, homemade cake, pretzels and nuts were served.

MAKING GREAT BRITAIN AIR-RAID CONSCIOUS

Fear of Widespread Death and Destruction From Skies In Next War Spurs Movement

HIGH PRESSURE AFFAIR

(Note: Unknown to the majority of Americans, Britain today is being drilled into becoming the most air-raid-conscious nation in the world. International News Service herewith presents the first of a series of four articles dealing with the Government campaign to compel Britons to protect themselves from bombs, poison-gas, and fire from the air in the next war.)

By Charles A. Smith
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)
(Copyright, 1938)

LONDON, June 8.—(I.N.S.)—In the greatest propaganda drive in British history, the Government of Great Britain is today pouring out millions of public money in a high pressure campaign designed to make the population conscious of the dangers the skies will hold for them in the next war.

Believing that the death and destruction dealt by enemy bombers over southern English cities and towns in the world war will be magnified a thousandfold in the next conflict, the authorities are seeking to make the people mass-conscious of the claim that precaution is the best defense.

Using every device known to modern publicity, Government experts have imprinted on the mind of every man, woman and child in recent months the slogan ARP—the diminutive for air raid precautions.

Where once the average English man or woman formerly talked about the cost of living, high rents, the best way to prune a rose, cut a lawn, or tend a baby, today the ordinary conversation of the man or woman in the street is concerned with ARP.

Clerks, cashiers, truck drivers, stenographers, salesmen and others in the varied walks of English life casually discuss the effects of the various types of poison gas, of the explosive force of bombs, or the best way to dress a wound, handle an anti-aircraft gun, trim a searchlight, or build a gas and bomb-proof shelter.

Thousands nightly attend classes or demonstrations in every city, town and village in the country, learning how to play their part in the grandiose precautionary measures designed by the Government for the civilian population.

Under the tuition of Government appointed experts, specially recruited civilian fire-fighting squads, gas-masked and uniformed, stage nightly drills, chasing from street to street, setting up escape apparatus, attaching hoses to hydrants, and otherwise performing the tasks they will be called on to do in an air raid.

Young men who have spent their day poring over ledgers, driving street cars, or selling goods behind a store counter, put on khaki uniform at night and go to their local drill hall to be instructed in the mysteries of hitting a moving object at 20,000 feet with an anti-aircraft shell, of finding an airplane by searchlight beam among a mass of high clouds, or of operating a sound-detector or height finder.

Others range the streets of the country lanes in army trucks, on which anti-aircraft guns and searchlights have been mounted, and play at finding and attacking the "enemy," represented by planes loaned by the air force and sent up to act as targets for the civilian defenders.

Juvenile members of the Solebury Farmers' Club will have complete charge of the next meeting which will take place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Dyer, Windybank road, Jericho Mountain, on Saturday evening, June 11, at which time they will be assisted in entertaining by Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Marshall, Corydon Crooks will serve as president and Miss Mary Chestnut will take the place of the secretary. Committee reports will be submitted by the following: Membership, Miss Alice Michener; legislative, Stephen Bredin; farm products, Thomas Magill; dairy, Richard Havens; poultry, Louis Fitting; fruit, Malcolm Crooks, and entertainment, Miss Virginia Ely. Sound pictures will also be shown at that meeting.

Members who will assist in serving at the meeting are Mr. and Mrs. Emmett Stoop, Mrs. Evelyn Johnson, Harry Waterman, Mrs. Emma Tinsman, Mrs. Robert Shaw, Mrs. Eloise Simpson, Mr. and Mrs. William G. Thayer, Jr., Mrs. I. S. Worthington, Mrs. Harry Franck, P. A. Waring, Walter and Lawrence Ely and Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Landenberger, Jr.

Chief of Police James P. Welsh, of Doylestown, has received a communication informing him that heirs of Anna Cogswell, who was born in the Doylestown section about 1875, are being sought. She was the daughter of Theodore and Christina M. Cogswell and has left an estate of about $25,000. Her heirs cannot be located and it is believed that she was placed, at an early age, in an orphanage somewhere in Pennsylvania. At that time she had either a brother and sister or two sisters, both younger than she.

Thirty-five members and friends attended the monthly meeting of the Newtown Friends' Forum held on Friday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Wolf, near Newtown.

After a covered dish supper and social hour, Dr. George A. Walton, George School, spoke in an interesting manner on the question, "What is morality?" He outlined the changes in morality from the time of George Fox until the World War.

Following the talk by Dr. Fox the members took part in an open discussion. The next meeting of the Forum will be held in July.

Mrs. Edward Briggs, of Newtown, entertained at a tea Sunday afternoon in honor of Miss Constance Allen and Miss Louise Baker, George School, who are retiring from the faculty.

Miss Allen is dean of girls and Miss Baker of the art department.

Guests were Miss Constance Allen, Miss Louise Baker, the Misses Elizabeth and Mary Kirk, Mary Wilson, and Grace Brokaw, George School, and Mrs. Robert Cooke, Newtown.

Oscar Corn Graduates With Honors at La Salle

Oscar Corn, 115 Mill street, graduated with "Magna Cum Laude" honors from La Salle College, Philadelphia, yesterday afternoon, at the 75th annual commencement.

For attaining the distinction of being third honor man in the class of 1938, Mr. Corn was cited as honorable mention for the William T. Connor prize. He also received a "Collegian" award for his work as associate editor of the college newspaper, and was elected into "Alpha Epsilon," the honorary fraternity of La Salle College, in recognition of scholarly attainment in conjunction with extra-curricular activities.

Besides receiving these honors, during his college course Mr. Corn has held the positions of president of "Le Cercle Francais," vice-president and treasurer of the Pre-Medical Society, and treasurer of Sigma Phi Lambda fraternity.

PREDICT APPROVAL OF WAGE-HOUR BILL SOON

Controversy Which Split Senate Conferees Expected to Come To Head Today

APPROVAL BY SAT.

By Robert A. McGill

I. N. S. Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, June 8.—(I.N.S.)—Approval of a wage-hour bill by Saturday was predicted by conferees today despite an undercover battle over rejection of a 40-40 rigid universal standard by the Senate Conference Committee.

The controversy that has split the Senate conferees is expected to come to a head today if the joint Senate and House committees vote on the compromise, forced on the Senate group by threats of a filibuster from the southern bloc.

Senate and House conferees representing the South, meanwhile, predicted victory in their fight for the elastic bill adopted by the Senate Committee. But the outcome hinged on slim margins. Each conference committee of seven was reported standing 4 to 3 in favor of the South. The bill adopted by the Senate conferees, and tentatively approved by a majority of the House group, would provide a 25 cent minimum hourly wage the first year, 30 the second, and no exemptions from the minimum after that period.

But at the end of the second year of the act, boards, similar to the code authorities under the old NRA, would be established to recommend a 40 cents per hour minimum and 40-hour work week when ever "economically possible." An administrator would have the power to approve or reject the board findings, based on the principal industries.

THE GREAT GAME OF POLITICS

By FRANK R. KENT

(Copyright, 1938, by The Baltimore Sun)

The Iowa Primaries

Washington, June 7.

MOST politicians are timid creatures who hate to swim against the tide and are always alert to detect trends. It is likely, therefore, that those Democrats in Congress who, immediately following the Florida primaries, suddenly lost their independence and became amenable to the Presidential wish will now feel a little foolish.

BECAUSE the fact is that the victory of Senator Gillette in the Iowa primaries against the Administration candidate, Mr. Wearin, is every bit as much of a rebuff to Mr. Roosevelt as the victory of Senator Pepper over Mr. Mark

Wilcox was a triumph for him. And it is a great pity that the Iowa result could not have happened a week ago. Probably it would not have affected the actual passage of the spending-lending program, but unquestionably it would have prevented the degrading rejection of the Hatch amendment, designed to prevent officials charged with the responsibility of distributing relief funds from using their positions—as Mr. Hopkins did in the Iowa primary—to influence or interfere in elections.

PROBABLY, too, other amendments to which no valid excuse for opposing was even presented would have been adopted and the whole administration of relief lifted to a somewhat higher plane. There is no question whatever that it was the prestige of the Pepper victory, seeming to indicate the futility of opposing White House candidates, which caused the change in Congressional sentiment.

Sixteen Graduate From The Yardley High School

YARLEY, June 8.—Sixteen were graduated from Yardley High School at the commencement exercises in I. O. O. F. Hall, last night. The speaker of the evening was Dr. Calvin O. Alt-house, of the Central High School, Philadelphia.

The five student essays had for a theme, "Our Constitution," which was also the title of the salutatory address, given by Miss Isabelle Stackhouse. Miss Edith Miller had "Our Constitution and Freedom of Religion"; "The Constitution and the Right to Petition," was given by Stanley Bennett, and Miss Doris Slack gave "The Constitution and Freedom of Speech," and Robert S. Bebbington, "The Citizen and the Constitution," which was the valedictory address. Miss Mary Miller, also a member of the graduating class, favored with a piano solo, "Chromatic Valse."

The orchestra played the opening march, and the invocation and benediction were given by the Rev. Francis C. Thomas, pastor of Yardley Methodist Church. The chorus sang two selections, "The Anvil Chorus" (Verdi) and "Largo" (Handel). James E. Groome, Sr., secretary of the board of education, presented the awards, and Mrs. Fred G. Satterthwaite, president of the board, presented the diplomas to the graduates, and certificates to the members of the eighth grade.

The graduates include: Dorothy C. Auer, Robert S. Bebbington, M. Stanley Bennett, Paul H. Brickmader, Donald P. Cliver, Willard E. Coleman, Lucetta E. Daugherty, Marie P. Hand, Marjorie C. Hopkins, Edith Miller, Mary B. Miller, Robert E. Neely, Doris J. Slack, Isabelle Stackhouse, Robert F. Van House, and Caroline Worrell.

84 RECEIVE DIPLOMAS AT BENSELEM HIGH

Robert Frederick MacFarland Receives Cornwells P. T. A. Award at Commencement

CORNWELLS HEIGHTS, June 8.

"Make you the world a bit more beautiful because you have lived in it," was the advice that Dr. Charles S. Swope, president West Chester State Teachers College, gave 84 Bensalem seniors, the largest graduating class in the history of the school, when he addressed them last evening at the fourteenth annual commencement exercises of the Bensalem Township High School in the school auditorium here.

The audience, which packed the auditorium to overflowing, as well as the graduating class, listened intently as Dr. Swope outlined three basic principles for the graduates to follow: "You must have social imagination and trained resourcefulness; you must have a willingness to work and serve; and you must put first things first," Dr. Swope told the class.

The annual presentation of the beautiful Cornwells P. T. A. trophy, awarded for scholarship, attendance, leadership, loyalty to school, and participation in extra-curricular activities, was given to Robert Frederick MacFarland. Mrs. Roscoe Perkins, president of the Cornwells P. T. A., made the presentation. A cash prize was given to the runner-up, Caroline Zuvich. Third prize, awarded by P. O. A., went to Margaret Hinkle.

The commencement project, "The Founding of Pennsylvania," was beautifully and excellently portrayed in three tableaux by members of the graduating class.

Robert MacFarland gave an introduction to the project in which he told the audience of the founding of Pennsylvania by the Swedes in 1638. He told of the formation of the trading company that came to Pennsylvania and landed at Wilmington. The group consisted of sailors, soldiers and settlers. MacFarland told of the first governor of Pennsylvania, Johann Prince and of the first capital at Thimicum, now Essington.

"Tincum is to Pennsylvania, in the way of the founding of the State, the same as Jamestown is related to the founding of Virginia, and Plymouth to the founding of Massachusetts," MacFarland said.

The first tableau of the project showed scenes in Europe in the year 1621 when the Queen Christina signed the charter for the trading company. The second section, in the years 1636-1638, showed the traders and settlers of the company in the New World as they made treaties with the Indians.

The final scene, representing the year 1642, showed the later groups that came to Pennsylvania and settled in different sections. The whole project was well executed by members of the graduating class and was doubly appropriate since this is the year that marks 300 years since the founding of Pennsylvania.

In the feature address of the evening Dr. Swope told the seniors that the frontiers of today are no longer geographical, but are now in the social and political fields. "The frontier of today is the frontier of imagination and resourcefulness."

PRESENT NUMEROUS PRIZES AS A CLASS OF 94 GRADUATES

Jean V. Rosser Receives The Grundy Medal; Father Has Honor of Presentation

J. B. SPENCER HONORED

Theme of Program is "The Constitution and Our National Development"

Honors in number were bestowed upon several of the 94 members of the 55th class to graduate from Bristol high school, when commencement exercises were conducted in the Grand Theatre last evening.

Fourteen hundred persons, relatives and friends of the students who have successfully completed the prescribed four-year high school course, were gathered in the theatre to witness the presentation of diplomas, the bestowal of many prizes, and to listen to the program which had for a theme "The Constitution and Our National Development."

In addition to the Grundy medal, and the diplomas, five prizes were presented by the Mothers' Association of Bristol public schools, and six by the Fathers' Association.

A distinct honor was accorded Keith Rosser, vice-president of the Bristol borough school board, when he presented to his daughter, Miss Jean V. Rosser, first honor student, the Grundy medal. This medal is awarded to the student who attains the highest average during the four-year high school course.

Several honors were accorded to John B. Spencer, Jr., on this occasion, he securing two prizes for meritorious work, and sharing in two other prizes.

Leading the large class in the processional march were Miss Rosser, the valedictorian; and Stanley Dick, president of the class. Wearing gray caps and gowns the graduates presented an attractive appearance as they were seated upon the large stage, which was banked with palms and baskets of cut flowers.

Following the invocation by the Rev. James R. Galley, pastor of Bristol Presbyterian Church, greetings were extended by the class president, Stanley Dick.

Participants in the commencement project the theme of which was "The Constitution and Our National Development," were Katherine M. Quinn, third honor student, "The Background of the Constitution"; a scene from the Constitutional Convention held in Independence Hall, Philadelphia, with excerpts from the speeches, by members of the class; Doris M. Mershon, second honor student, "The Framing and the Operation of the Constitution"; Jean V. Rosser, first honor student, "Constitutional Development and Its Meaning Today."

Throughout the presentation by the various participants important stages in the development of the constitution were shown, and many members of the class took part in the scene from the convention.

A copy of the constitution of the United States of America had a prominent place upon

STRETCHING THE LAW

We were interested the other day in the picture of two boys who were sentenced by a judge of a minor court to receive a public horsewhipping from their fathers. They were not bad looking youngsters. It appears they had stolen some wire—how much we do not know—as "a bit of deviltry." Of course, that was not a commendable thing to do. Probably, too, it was an offense that called for some manner of punishment. But we did not like, and we still do not like, the assumption of the court that it could decree so vitally humiliating a punishment as it decreed. And we were rather inclined, and still are, to cheer the fathers for their refusal to submit the boys to that experience.

Sometimes we think these modern Solomons who sit on the benches of our minor courts and deal with the delinquencies of youthful offenders are inclined to stretch the law in rather fantastic ways. Of course, they may be assumed to do so with excellent purposes. Doubtless the judge in this particular case felt that he really ought to save these boys from a prison experience. Doubtless, too, he felt that what they had done deserved some more vigorous form of punishment than would be provided by the imposition of a fine which the boys would not have to pay but which their fathers would. He really wanted them to feel personally the weight of the law.

What we are really interested in is the assumption of some judges that it is within their province to decree punishments not provided for by law. We regard it as an offense against the body politic which, if permitted to become an established practice, may easily be ultimately extended to matters more important than youthful peccadilloes. And then what becomes of law?

PROGRESSIVE INDIANS

Those who factionally talk about giving the country back to the Indians probably have in mind the roving, hunting, scalping Indians who didn't get a square deal from our revered ancestors. The notion we now can give back to the Indians the country of their forefathers, because we have got in such a mess with it we want to unload, doesn't do us much credit.

But the fact is, the Indians aren't what they used to be, and maybe they are proving quite worthy to share responsibilities with us. In Cattaraugus County, New York, this spring, 55 Indian school children set out 2,000 black ash seedlings on the common land of their reservation. They chose black ash because it is good for basket making.

The Indians made a big holiday of the event. The old chiefs and braves stood about watching the children with great interest. The youngsters, under a 4-H leader, worked earnestly with spades and grub-hoes. The seedlings were developed in the nursery of New York State College of Agriculture.

Nations are like men. A quarrelsome gun-toter can impose on a peaceful neighbor forever if he doesn't go too far at one time.

To judge a great man's act, ask yourself what you would think of it if your dumbest acquaintance did it.

Non-resistant washer an accused man's rights. An innocent man's rights.

The Great Game of Politics

toward the Presidential program. Equally, there is no question that had the ignominious—because it was ignominious—failure of the Administration forces to "eliminate" Senator Gillette been demonstrated the last week of May instead of the first week of June, the effect of the Florida result would have been nullified and resistance to the more autocratic White House demands been stiffened.

IN other words, Congress would have voted the money, but it would have attached strings. It would not have given this gigantic sum to the President to spend as he pleases. Already there are regrets as the situation in which the rejection of these four amendments has placed them is realized by members of the Senate who at heart knew they should be adopted, but were afraid to vote the way they believed. While it is too late to do anything about that now, nevertheless the Gillette victory is bound to have a salutary general effect on the national picture.

—O—

IN the first place, it is a fine thing to have it definitely proved that mere White House approval, supported by the Federal bureaucrats and relief-machine heads, is not enough to nominate a rubber-stamp Roosevelt man in a Democratic primary. That will encourage the other Democratic Senators who voted against the court-packing plan and have been marked for destruction by the White House political strategists. In the second place, it is a tremendously fine thing to have had the voters rebuke the churlish Mr. Harry Hopkins, who by his open endorsement of Mr. Wearin shockingly abused the power given him as the dispenser of Federal relief.

—O—

IN the third place, it is a healthy set-back for Mr. Tommy Corcoran, who was head of the drive to defeat Senator Gillette, and other of the amateur politicians around the President, among them his secretary-son, Mr. James Roosevelt, the young millionaire insurance salesman, whose head seemed just a little turned by the fulsome tributes of admiring friends to his "great political generalship" in the Florida primaries. In Iowa, he had notified the voters that Mr. Wearin is "my friend," and a photograph of himself with Mr. Wearin was widely distributed in the State. The result seems to prove that in politics you are only right when you win.

THERE are, of course, certain circumstances in Iowa which tend to soften the blow for the New Dealers, but so there were in Florida for the anti-New Dealers. In Iowa, Secretary Wallace took no side in the fight, and Senator Gillette had the support of the State machine. But so did Senator Pepper in Florida—and also the solid support of the Townsends. The fact remains that Mr. Hopkins, Mr. James Roosevelt and Mr. Wearin, himself, made the fight in Iowa one between a hundred percent Roosevelt man and one who refused to so proclaim himself wholly subservient and whom the President ardently wanted to punish for his vote against packing the Supreme Court. The latter won. The "purge" flopped. Had it been otherwise, the opposition to the New Deal would have been grievously weakened and there would have been another depressing exhibition of political cowardice in different parts of the country. As things are, the effect should be the reverse.

ON SCREENS IN BRISTOL

GRAND

Warner Bros. again demonstrates its talent for combining real entertainment with social problems of significance in the picture, "Beloved Brat," which comes to the Grand Theatre, Wednesday, matinee and night.

Woven around the life of a young girl, Roberta Morgan (Bonita Granville), the picture tells a dramatic story of parental misunderstanding and disinterest which drive the girl into the path of life which few ever retrace—the path which usually ends in stark tragedy.

Roberta, the only child in a wealthy home, has been brought up by a governess and the household servants. She is bad-mannered, tempestuous, and thoroughly hateful to everyone but her father's lawyer who is wise enough to realize that she is not to blame.

BRISTOL

The most amazing array of stellar talent ever assembled in a single production is presented in Samuel Goldwyn's magnificent Technicolor musical extravaganza, "The Goldwyn Follies," at the Bristol Theatre today.

Drawing from every field of entertainment to augment a screen cast headed by Adolphe Menjou, The Ritz Brothers, Andrea Leeds, Ella Logan, Jerome Cowan and The Gorgeous Goldwyn Girls, the producer secured radio's Edgar Bergen and "Charlie McCarthy," Phil Baker and Kenny Baker; grand opera's Helen Jepson and Charles Kullmann; the dance's Zorina and George Balanchine's American Ballet, and the musical stage's favorite comedian, Bobby Clark.

The first entertainment in his 25 years of picture-making to carry his name, "The Goldwyn Follies" also marks Goldwyn's swing to the color standard.

TULLYTOWN

Plans are being made by members of the Volunteer Fire Company to hold the annual carnival this year the latter part of July. The dates will be announced within a few days as the committee in charge will meet this week.

—ANNOUNCEMENT—
UNIQUE EVENT at the TRAVEL CLUB, BRISTOL
TUESDAY EVENING, JUNE 14TH
Beginning at Eight o'Clock, on the dot!

Dear Friends:

In order to become more widely acquainted with music students in Bristol, I have decided to give an Open Lesson in Singing, when I shall explain my method in minute detail. Correct breathing. Tone production—taking the tone instead of making it. Distinct enunciation. Color. Interpretation, etc. etc. Thomas Hopely, one of my pupils, will demonstrate many of these subjects, and also will sing songs in English, German and French. One of the most unique and important features will be the Question and Answer period—an opportunity for those present to ask questions at any time during the hour.

There will be a nominal charge of twenty-five cents.

BRAGG'S OUTDROP FOOLS ODD FELLOWS

Fooled the Odd Fellows batters with his famous outdrop, Johnny Bragg's narked the Superior Zinc Corporation nine into third place in the Bristol Twilight League by handling the Odds a set of goose-eggs on Leedom's field before a large crowd. Final score was 4-0.

Braggs was shaky at the start and the Odds put runners on base in the first four frames but the dusky twirler got a three run lead and from then on there was hitting done by the Radcliffe Street clan. Bragg's retired the last eleven batters in order. Watson had two singles and Leo Hibbs a double to make the total Odd Fellows' hits.

The Superior batters faced Hal Snyder who had eight strikeouts on his credit but he was wild and this coupled with erratic playing made the zinc smelters' triumph more easy.

Two errors, two passes and three safe blows gave the Superior workers three runs in the third and the fourth was scored on a hit by Breslin, an error by Dick and a safe blow from the bat of McCue. Incidentally, McCue hit his third triple of the season in the second inning.

ST. ANN'S-ODD FELLOWS
(At Edgely)

Umpire, Fraul; scorer, Delan ROHM & HAAS-GROUNDY'S (Grundy's field)
Umpire, Fields; scorer, Tomlinson
With a tremendous home run by Mike DeRisi featuring the game, the St. Ann's A. nine trimmed the Grundy's team, 10-0, last evening on the Grundy field diamond. It was the eleventh straight loss for the woolen makers.

DeRisi's clout was with the sacks bare and started the Saints to a scoring spree which did not end until seven run had crossed the plate. DeRisi also had a single to his credit and in chalking up his third consecutive mound triumph limited the Grundy team to two hits. Seven of the Grundy batters went out on strikes.

NEW PITCHER MAY BE ON MOUND FOR LANDRETHS

This evening at 6.15 at the Landreth Ball Park, Port Richmond of the Philadelphia City League will oppose the Landreth nine in a game which should be an evenly matched affair.

Last year Port Richmond beat the Farmers 6 to 4, so the locals are out for revenge.

Port Richmond is managed by John Collins, the old Catholic High and St. Joseph's College star. Martini or Smith will probably pitch for Port Richmond with Manion doing the catching.

Manager Landreth is undecided just who he will pitch, but it will probably be Wilson Holland with Mel Helsley held in reserve, or he may start Walter Masterson, the Philadelphia Catholic High School ace, who has just joined the club.

James' Plurality 217,198

Philadelphia, June 8.—Judge Arthur H. James, successful candidate for governor, carried Philadelphia by a 217,198 plurality over his principal competitor, former Governor Gifford Pinchot, in the May 17 primaries, the official count of the County Board of Election showed today.

Air Raids Continue

Canton, June 8.—The shrill of air raid alarms again terrified Canton at 8 o'clock tonight and 25 Japanese planes were reported approaching.

There was a slight drizzle, however, and it was hoped poor visibility would keep the Japanese from reaching their objective.

84 Receive Diplomas At Bensalem High

"He who gives most will benefit most and forge ahead," was the advice the speaker gave. "It is up to you, graduates of Bensalem, to make your township, your county, your state and your country a little bit better because you have lived and have served. Put God first, others second, and you third and you will succeed."

The presentation of the class gift, a bust of Abraham Lincoln, was presented to the school by Theodore Eldys, president of the graduating class.

Lois Lange won the girls' American Legion Award. The presentation was made by Mrs. H. H. Dettmer, member of the Robert W. Bracken Post Auxiliary, No. 382. Lester Engle won the boys' award and this presentation was made by Dr. J. Fred Wagner, Bristol.

The J. Hamilton Bushnell Courtesy Award was won by a member of the graduating class, Caroline Zuvick. The award was made by Gladys Reed, recipient of the 1937 award. The Archie Lummis Courtesy Award was won by Frances Stuhlraeger.

The coveted Alumni athletic medals for outstanding work in athletics over the four years were won by Mabel Ridge for the girls and Harold Robinson for the boys. The awards were made by Archie Lummis, president of the Alumni Association.

Several certificates were also presented for attendance records. The record of Betty Perkins, who did not miss a day in 10 years, and only 5 days during her entire 12 years, was outstanding. Catherine McCloskey was second with 8 years of perfect attendance and Dolores Bound third with 7 perfect years.

The Taylor School awards for excellence in typing were won by Lillian Morrison, first prize; and Doris Yeagle, second prize. The faculty award for outstanding work in the field of mathematics and science was won by Walter Smith. The dramatics award, given by the Kings Theatre Guild of Andalusia, was awarded to Victor Swadis.

The scholarship fund award, for the highest average was won by Jeanne Stackhouse. Runner-up, only a fraction behind the winner, was Margaret Mondore.

The complete program last evening was as follows: Processional, "Hope March" by Papini, played by the Bensalem Township High School Orchestra under the leadership of Earl Frick. The 84 graduates in caps and gowns and each wearing a tea rose, made a beautiful sight as they marched to the front of the auditorium. The invocation was given by the Rev. Howard Oursler, pastor of the Cornwells M. E. Church. Two selections by the orchestra, "Night Song" by Charles Williams and "Orpheus" by Gluck. The Commencement project was next on the program.

A vocal solo by Erna Letterle, "Indian Dawn" was next. The accompanist was Dorothy O'Dea. The program continued with a selection by the Senior Ensemble when they sang "Trees." Virginia MacKenzie was the accompanist.

The address, "Youth Looking Forward" by Dr. Swope; chorus by the Senior class, "Bensalem," accompanied by Mabel Ridge. This song, which is the official school song, was written by H. A. Fitch, graduate in the class of '30.

Membership in the National Honor Society is a distinct honor, it being accorded upper classmen from leading high schools, membership being determined by scholastic rating, and also upon the characteristics of leadership, service, and character. Selection is made by the combined vote of faculty members and old members of the society. Five per cent of the class is eligible during the junior year, and 10 per cent in addition in the senior year.

The musical selections for the evening, all of which were exceptionally well given, included: Processional march, "Flag of Truce" (Laurendeau), high school orchestra; vocal solo, "Bendemeer's Stream," John B. Spencer, Jr.; "All in the April Evening," high school chorus; vocal solo, "I Love Thee," Margaret E. Phipps; "Recessional" (DeKoven), chorus.

Another number on the program was the reading of the essay which secured for Raymond Dewees, Jr., a prize of $10 in the Mothers' Association essay contest. This was read by Mr. Dewees.

The class motto was "Work and you will be rewarded."

Making Great Britain Air-Raid Conscious

hosepipes, brooms, and other paraphernalia, solemnly parade in various areas and practice how they will rid buildings and streets of gas immediately after an air raid.

Within specially selected strategic buildings, little groups of workers assemble every night to learn how they will handle emergency telephone calls and rush rescue squads, decontamination units, or fire fighters to bombed or gassed areas. Fancifully, they destroy power stations, subways, office blocks, and whole streets of tenements in order to make themselves proficient at their task.

Women office workers, factory hands, and society ladies mingle in local armories and halls to learn how to tie a bandage, dress a wound, or treat a child or elderly person suffering from minor hurts. "Casualties" are brought in to them for first-aid treatment, which is performed under the supervision of trained nurses and doctors.

Hundreds of thousands of others, unwilling to play a direct part in the ARP scheme but anxious to protect their own lives and homes, attend classes or read official literature instructing them how to build an air raid shelter at small cost, seal up their homes against poison gas, and otherwise attempt to prepare to escape the worst in an actual raid.

In scores of factories deft-fingered girls daily pack thousands of gas-masks in sealed containers, to be stored away at strategic centers in every town, city and village, ready for distribution within eight hours of war being declared.

Other factories are making fire pumps, special brooms, and buckets for containing sand—the officially recommended home defense method.

The work of making the nation air-raid conscious will go on for probably two years, until every home has its defense plan, every community its store of gas-masks, its quota of fire engines, gas decontamination apparatus, even its anti-aircraft gun and its searchlight.

Until then the propaganda campaign will not be let up for one moment.

(Note: The second article in this series will describe typical air-raid shelters and gas-proof structures being erected in British centers and private homes.—INS.)

Carrying on for Connibear

By BURNLEY

In football it's the Rockne system, and in the rowing game the technique of the late Hiram Connibear holds absolute sway.

The old days of those granddaddy oarsmen, Jim Ten Eyck, Pop Courtney and Old Dick Glendon, are now just a memory to rowing enthusiasts. These individualists in rowing styles no longer rule the rivers. From the world of rowing, it was there that Hiram Connibear perfected this widespread adoption.

Ed Leader, current Yale rowing mentor, was Connibear's assistant and successor at Washington. Silent Ed was the first of the Connibear apostles and one of the most successful.

Then came Rusty Callow, present coach at Penn, who learned his rowing A B C's under Leader, Ky Ebright, a Washington coxswain, has gone on to lasting fame as California's coach, guiding the Golden Bears to two Olympic titles.

Now we have the talented Al Ulbrickson at the helm of the Connibear alma mater. Al's Huskies copied the late Olympic crown, and have reigned supreme since then. Washington recently conquered California in their annual regatta, and looks like the choice at Poughkeepsie once more.
